

THE WEB

GARDNER-WEBB
COLLEGE

Vol. 7, No. 1

BOILING SPRINGS, N. C.

September, 1973

G-W To Operate FM Radio Station

A 5,000-watt FM non-commercial radio station will begin operation within 90 days on Gardner-Webb's campus.

College President Dr. E. Eugene Postle has announced that the Federal Communications Commission has granted the college a permit to operate the station with an assigned frequency of 88.3 on the FM dial.

The station will operate seven days a week for 12 hours each day, 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. The station will have a 300-foot tower which will be located in Boiling Springs at the rear of the college's former alumni house. The station itself will be in the house, which was once used as the president's home.

"We are very pleased that we have received our permit to go on the air with this FM station," said Dr. Poston. "I am sure that the station will benefit the entire community, and will provide opportunity for training in radio work for our students. We plan to make it a strong Christian station with many educational features in the programming."

A full-time manager will direct the operation and student help will be utilized for the remainder of the staff.

The station will reach as far east as Charlotte, west to Hendersonville, north to Lenoir and south to beyond Chester, S.C. It will have a radius of a little more than 80 miles. It will be a stereo operation with some of the finest equipment available.

Much of the equipment was made possible through a memorial gift of the Lee P. Fries family, of Hickory. The late Mr. Fries was a Hickory businessman and an avid supporter of the college. He died in an automobile accident in January, 1970, while visiting in Henderson, Fla. Mrs. Fries and other members of the family gave more than $20,000 to be used for radio equipment.

"We are very indebted to the Fries family for their gift," said Dr. Poston. "We feel that there would be no better way to use this money than to have a fine Christian educational station on the campus. Mr. Fries was a fine Christian businessman and I am sure that he would have wanted to have a part in the establishment of this station."

On Campus . . .

August was a transitional month at Gardner-Webb—an end, a beginning and a continuation.

It was a momentous month for the 67 students who received their degrees in summer commencement ceremonies held Aug. 11. They heard an address by the Rev. C.A. Kirby, pastor of Double Springs Baptist Church in Cleveland County, who told them that "you cannot expect to great heights on your own and it is not until man finds God and God's direction for his life that there is meaning." He urged discipline, involvement and self-realization as keys to success.

Among the summer graduates was a 58-year-old grandmother, Mrs. Sue Moss Diers, a Gardner school teacher who earned a degree in childhood education and became eligible for a Class A teaching certificate—something I've wanted for a long time.

As summer school students departed, the regular academic year began, with students beginning to arrive on Aug. 18 in advance of class sessions starting on Aug. 23.

With registration hopefully eased by the college's new data processing equipment, students had time to attend special fest of the year worship services, receptions and orientation sessions, make new friends and have happy reunions with old ones.

For the campus, the returning students marked the beginning of a new cycle, over old and over new.

Homecoming Oct. 20

If it takes tying a string around your finger, remember Homecoming, 1973! The festive day will be Saturday, Oct. 20, and a warm invitation goes out to all alumni and friends.

Come stroll about the campus, with fall leaves underfoot, greet classmates and former teachers, and cheer once again for the Bulldogs and the red and black.

The traditional Homecoming game, scheduled for 8:30 p.m. will be played with a worthy opponent—Carson-Newman College. It should be an exciting one—and girls' basketball ceremonies will have a charm of their own.

Alumni and friends are cordially invited to remain on campus for the evening meal in the college cafeteria. No reservations are required—you can pay the cafeteria cashier.

Earlier on Homecoming Day, the college faculty will observe Founders' Day ceremonies.

The Gardner and Webb families will be honored at services dedicating the new addition to the Webb Administration Building and at a Founders' Day luncheon.

It'll be a great day for Alma Mater and alumni. See you at the ballgame!

McGraw, Others In New Assignments

Gardner-Webb's administrative staff has been reorganized to meet needs arising from the college's continuing growth.

Thomas J. McGraw, formerly vice president for academic affairs, has been elevated to executive vice president and dean of the college. He will assume more overall direction of Gardner-Webb's progress and will be assisted in the academic area by the newly named assistant dean, Dr. Don W. Proctor, G-W's director of guidance and counseling since 1969.

Eddie Holbrook has been named coordinator of development and athletics. He will continue in his duties as athletic director and basketball coach, but has been relieved of teaching responsibilities to coordinate the work of the department of public relations, alumni and development activities, and denominational relations.

Major roles in these areas will be played by Jerry Walker, Dr. J. Ray Robinson and William E. Boyd.

Walker, G-W's alumni activities director, has been given the additional responsibility of the development office. Dr. Robinson has been elevated to director of denominational relations and deferred giving, and will be working with the Ministerial Board of Associates, major serving Christian colleges. Boyd will continue his work as director of the college's public relations program.

In other new assignments, business manager Charles Mack was named coordinator of business affairs and business manager, and Ron Hooper, assistant basketball coach, was named associate athletic director and executive director of the Building Club.

William J. Briggs, coordinator of student personal services, was freed from the responsibilities of the placement office to develop a more up-to-date personnel program. The placement office responsibilities were assigned to Tom Poston, director of student activities.

NEW CLASS—Dr. E. Eugene Poston, college president, left, Thomas J. McGraw, vice president, center, and the Rev. B.E. Morris discuss a new Bible course Morris is teaching at Gardner-Webb.

New Bible Class: A Service

The Rev. B.E. Morris, longtime North Carolina pastor, is teaching a Bible class this semester which was announced as open to all at no charge, as a service to students and community.

Class sessions, which began Sept. 12, are being held in the John R. Deaver Jr. Memorial Chapel each Wednesday afternoon. Entitled "Living Religion," the course deals with material from the Sermon on the Mount with expositions of Matthew 5-7. It's especially pointed toward religious majors at the college and others in full-time church positions in the area.

College President Dr. E. Eugene Poston and the course was another step toward the establishment of an endowed chair of Bible at Gardner-Webb. He said it is his hope that the chair can be fully endowed—with a foundation of $100,000 or more—within the next three years.

The Rev. Mr. Morris, a Stanley, N.C. native, has had some 40 years' experience as a North Carolina pastor and educator. He was graduated from Wake Forest University and earned two degrees at Southern Baptist Theological Seminary.

Faculty, Staff Members Named

Dr. John R. Dwyer, Mrs. Margaret Fairbur and Roy Alexander are among new faculty and staff members at the college.

Dr. Dwyer has been named assistant professor of religion. An Atlanta, Ga., native, he is a graduate of Belmont College in Nashville and earned bachelor of divinity, master of theology and doctor of theology degrees at Southern Baptist Theological Seminary. He has been pastor of Parkview Baptist Church in Gainesville, Fla., for the past three years.

Mrs. Fairbur is a new nursing instructor. She is a native of Morganton and earned a bachelor's degree in nursing at Duke University. She has been a staff nurse at the Durham Veterans' Administration Hospital for the past three years.

Alexander, a Kings Mountain native, has been named associate campus minister and admissions counselor. A 1971 graduate of Gardner-Webb with a major in psychology, he earned a master of religious education at Southern Seminary this past May. His degree emphasis was campus ministry.

THE WEB

VOL. VII

No. 1

Published monthly except January and August at Belling Springs, N.C. 28847. Second class postage paid at Belling Springs, N.C.

Pat Poston, Editor
Wilkes E. Boyd, Director of Public Relations
Jerry Walker, Director of Alumni Activities

It yet remains to be seen just how large our web will grow, but this much we know: once you're woven in, we never let you go. This is the spirit of Gardner-Webb.

Carson: Making Stepping Stones

In certain classes at Gardner-Webb, students are properly ignored if they raise their hands. The teacher, assistant professor of religion Ralph Logan Carson, is blind.

New on the faculty this year, Carson was graduated from the N.C. School for the Blind and Deaf in Merion, N.C., where he was born. He expects to receive a Ph.D. degree from Drew University in Madison, N.J., next year. He is writing his doctoral dissertation while teaching three classes of Old Testament and a class on black church history at Gardner-Webb.

Carson comes to Gardner-Webb from Methodist State College, where he taught religion since 1968. Before that, he taught Bible in the Wake Schools in Beaufort, N.C.

"There are three ways an individual reacts to a handicap," he commented. "You can give up and say 'It's got me,' spend your time fighting it, or take your handicap and make stepping stones out of it."

Carson goes about the campus with the aid of Ginger, his trained seeing eye dog, and has no difficulty conducting his classes.

He uses the lecture discussion method of teaching.

"I want my classes to be known not for what I can throw out at students but what we can gain together."

In grading papers, Carson has confidential readers who read students' exams to him and write down his comments—before he is informed of the student's name. He believes this system enables him to be completely fair.

STOPPING FOR A CHAT—Ralph Logan Carson, assistant professor of religion, shown with his seeing eye dog Ginger, talks with students G.L. Brown of Winston-Salem and Charles Richardson of Shelby.

Turn papers are recorded on tape for him, and he types a page of comments for each. An expert typist, he worked three years as a surgical stenoographer at Methodist Hospital in Louisville, Ky.

Student cheating is an unlikely possibility, since he uses essay questions on exams.

"In case you have to have a good memory and I can always tell if I have heard something similar in another paper," he explains.

Carson believes strongly in what he calls his "W.C." (for "we care") Principle.

"I want students to know that I care about them as a person and not as a number in my class," he explains.

He calls out class rolls from memory and recognizes students immediately by their voices.

Carson and his wife, Glenwood, have a son, Aaron Peters, 12, and a daughter, Treva Gail, 8, whom they adopted from a Nigerian businessman whose wife died in child birth. The adoption saved her from the tribal custom of abandonment in such instances.

Carson is the college's first black faculty member.

"I hope that people will forget I am the first black faculty member," he says. "I want people to accept me as an individual and as a professor who is going to be a complete professor."

Summer Program

More than 6,000 people took advantage of the swimming facilities at Gardner-Webb during the three months of summer, according to Dr. Robert Blackburn, who directed the summer pool program.

Included were some 300 taught to swim for the first time. They ranged in age from four to 48. Another 1,200 people were included in various groups who used the facilities for parties during the summer.

More than 3,000 others from all parts of this area came to enjoy the pool for swimming.

Dr. Blackburn added that those people earned the water safety instructor's award, another was certified as an instructor in beginner swimming, 11 were given senior life saving certificates and six earned junior life saving awards.

Danforth Awards Announced

The Danforth Foundation has announced the 10th competition for its Graduate Fellowships for Women, for which some Gardner-Webb alumni may be eligible. The program's objective is to find and develop college and secondary school teachers among American women whose preparation for teaching has been postponed or interrupted. In general, the fellowships are intended for women who no longer qualify for more conventional fellowship programs or whose candidacy in such programs might be given low priority.

Thirty-five fellowships of up to $1,000 plus fees and tuition are available annually for women who have bachelor's degrees from accredited colleges. At some time in her career, each candidate must have had a continuous break of at least three years' duration when she would have been engaged neither in study nor in teaching. Typically, a candidate's career may have been interrupted by the rearing of a family, personal illness, or the need for a paying job, but she may now find herself in circumstances which permit her to undertake graduate work essential for a professional career as a teacher.

The alumni office at Gardner-Webb has further details on eligibility, or interested alumnae may write Director, Graduate Fellowships for Women, Danforth Foundation, 222 South Central Ave., St. Louis, Mo. 63144, right away.

With The Alumni

Mary Sue (Mrs. E.M.J. Jarrett) '33 of Shelby was elected national president of the American Legion Auxiliary at its annual convention in Honolulu during March. She has chosen "America is a family affair" as the theme of her term, in which she will focus on work with children and youth. She's a member of the GW alumni association's board of directors.

Leroy Wahsawak '34, who was on Grinnell-Wabba's football team the year it won the state junior college championship, is retired and living at the Cherokee Indian Reservation. Married to the former Miss Emma Corn Silk of Graham County, he had three daughters. One is employed by the Federal Department of Indian Health Welfare, one as a St. Louis hospital medical technician, and the other is a teacher on the reservation.

Margaret Todd Elsenberger '39 visited the campus recently. Having spent 25 years of government service, she has served as writer-editor of the Fort Lee Traveler for the past seven years and is currently studying toward a degree in journalism at Virginia Commonwealth College.

Margaret Dodge King '45 is employed in the campus office of Bill Briggs, coordinator of student personnel services.

Newton R.N. Hardin '48, alumni class agent for the Class of 1948, is a chaplain and lieutenant colonel in the U.S. Air Force and recently was reassigned to Kees, Thailand. "I know this will be an unusual year," he writes. Mail should be addressed to Newton R.N. Hardin, Chaplain, LA Col, USAF, Installation Chaplain, 388 CSGrp Box 954, APO San Francisco 96328.

Linda Rupp Bentley '54 and her son, Allen, 9, visited GW recently. She and her husband, Worth, and family live in Moravia Falls, where she teaches fourth grade and he is employed by the postal department. They have a 110-acre farm on which they're raising Angus cattle and 42,000 chickens!

Scott Frieble '56 lives in Atlanta, Ga., where he teaches physical education in grades one through eight at Christ the King School.

Harold Plemons '57, president and founder of Tom Thamb Glass Co. of Wilkesboro, has announced plans for constructing a new plant there. It will employ 400 persons.

Bill Brackett '58 has been promoted to Boy Scout executive of the Old Dominion Area Council in Suffolk, Va. In Scouting for the past 15 years, he most recently has been northern field director for the Blue Ridge Council. He and his wife, the former Shirley Davis, have three sons.

The Rev. James Elrod '61 has been named chaplain at Piedmont State Hospital in Burkeville, Va.

The Rev. Robert G. Buckner '63 has been called to the First Baptist Church of Broken Arrow, Okla., as minister of education and outreach. He has masters of religious education and divinity degrees from Southwestern Seminary.

John M. Winchley '63 has been promoted to assistant vice president in charge of the installment loan department at the Lenoir branch of the Northwestern Bank.

Phyllis Eva Birchland '63 and Gary Lynn Johnson, both of Charlotte, were married in July. She is employed by Weathers Bank and Trust Company in Charlotte, where they're making their home.

A. Carthel (Country) Coast '64 is the new head football coach and athletic director at St. Andrew's High School in Charleston, S.C. During the past six years, he has been assistant football coach at Eastley, S.C. High School, whose team won the state 4-A championship last year. The school's six-year record has been 69-11-2. This past summer, Coast received a master's degree in education, with a major in administration and supervision, from Clemson University.

Frank Wells Jr. '65 received the doctor of philosophy degree in educational psychology research in August from the University of Alabama. Dr. Wells has been employed for the past two years at Partlow State School and Hospital in Alabama as a staff psychologist.

Dr. Michael Worth Bridges '67 and his bride, the former Miss Mym Alice Dickson of Lenoir, are making their home in Lenoir, where he is engaged in practice as a veterinarian. They were married in July.

Ken and Linda Whitehead Haywood '68 of Lenoir, N.C., welcomed a daughter, Shelby Anne, on July 24. They also have a son, Chris, nearly two.

The Rev. Claude Ray Justice '67 is the new pastor of Trinity Baptist Church in Whitesville.

The Rev. Robert V. Dodd '67 moved in June to Lenoir, where he is serving the Littlejohn and Gamewell United Methodist Churches and is managing Camp Cardwood, the Statesville district Methodist camp. His wife, the former Ann Armstrong, is employed as a program analyst with the quality control unit of the N.C. Department of Social Services.

Susan Sweet Tison '67 and her husband, Rick, a program analyst for the President Mutual Life Insurance Co., live in Glen Riddle, Pa.,

BRACKETT

AT THE SPRING—The old spring on the campus is a favorite spot for alumni, for whom it's a tradition. What more appropriate place, then, for an alumni gathering? The photos here were taken at a July 21 picnic held after the quarterly meeting of the GWC Alumni Association officers and directors. Family members were invited to arrive and run while the meeting was in progress, then join the group for charred hotdogs and hamburgers. That's Jack Cerech, left, alumni association president, and Jerry Walker, alumni activities director, right, in the left photograph. Looking toward the future, the alumni council had a fine welcome for the prospective Class of 1977—this year's entering freshmen. The alumni hosted a coin party for about 200 of the freshmen and transfer students as the new college year began. This gathering, too, was held at the spring . . . conveying a spirit and a tradition.

and are the parents of two sons, five and three years old.

Robert Earl White '68 and his bride, the former Nancy Jean Gaffney, are living at Route 1, Hixson, and are employed by PPD Industries, Inc. They were married in early July.

Roger Michael Jenkins '68 has joined the staff of Lowery Furniture Co. in Forest City, where he makes his home with his wife and one son.

Betty Jane Leffer '68 and John Samuel Koss Jr. '68 were in August ceremonies in Shelby. Betty, who was graduated from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in 1971, is a third-grade teacher in Charlotte, where they'll make their home. The bridegroom, employed with Kuller Cosmetics Products, served in the U.S. Army after leaving GWC, and presently is attending Central Piedmont College.

Pain Hamrick '68 has been named director of the Shelby Parks and Recreation Department, which he had served as athletic director for the past two years.

James Henry Phillips III '68 and Charlene Porterfield of Graham were married in August. They're making their home at Route 3, Southfield. The bridegroom is employed by Johnson County Technical Institute there.

James Whitfield Glidwell '69 was married in June to Wanda Lynn Willis of Shelby, who attended GWC before earning her degree at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte. He is employed by McKay-Helgeson General Contractors, and she is a special education teacher in Greenville, S.C., where they will make their home.

David Norman Morris II '71 and Jacqueline Sue Ridley were married in May in Lowell, N.C. They're making their home at 1565 Hudson Blvd. in Lowell.

William (Bo) Cash '71 has been employed as an agent by the North Carolina Farm Bureau Mutual Insurance Co. in Shelby, N.C. He and his wife, the former Vickie Browning of Morganton, N.C., live in Swainsville, N.C.

Michael H. Rypa '71 is an adult services caseworker with the Newberry County, S.C., Department of Social Services.

Mary Catherine Criss '71 and Malcolm Moore Carpenter Jr. in Stockton, N.C., June rites. She is a public school teacher and her husband is employed with the Employment Security Commission in Gastonia, N.C. They're making their home at Route 4, Landrum.

The Rev. Richard Martin, Jr. '71 of Greenville, Wis., assumed the pastorate of Layton Avenue Baptist Church in Milwaukee in May.

William B. (Bill) Harrell III '71 is minister of education at Western Avenue Baptist Church in Statesville. He and his wife have a son, Totty, born in August, 1972, and will welcome another child early next year.

Teresa Patricia Boone '71 and Donald Wayne Dockery, both of Waynesville, were wed in July and are making their home at Rt. 3, Waynesville. She teaches in Haywood County Schools and he is employed by Lowe's, Inc.

Stephen D. Lowe '71 has been named administrative assistant to the District attorney of the 15th judicial district, based in Hickory. He formerly was a state probation officer.

Michael David Smith '71 received a master of arts degree in clinical psychology in August from Appalachian State University, completing his courses with an A average. He and his wife Marianne and their daughter, Jennifer, 13 months, live in Concord, where he is employed by a mental health clinic.

Nancy Robert Koss '71 and Ardith Day Altman were married in August. Both are faculty members at Henry Tunsted Elementary School in Florence, S.C.

The Rev. Troy S. Harman '71, a second-year student at Southern Baptist Theological Seminary working toward a master of divinity degree, is the new pastor of Brushy Fork Baptist Church in Canaan, Ind.

Richard Greenhaw '72 was married in May to Vickie Buchette of Charlotteville, Va. Richard is assistant manager of Eckard's Drugs in Forest City, where the couple will make their home.

Marilyn Inez Alexander '72 and Joe Michael Beckwith '73 of Gastonia, N.C., were married in May and are living in Gastonia.

Donald Hargrove Williams '72 and his bride, the former Donna Marie Hayden are making their home in Charlotte, where he is employed by C. B. Williams Plumbing Co.

Joseph Randolph Kirk, Jr., '72 and Sandra Ann Smith '73 were married in June in Stone Road, N.C.

Joan Carol Lloyd '72 and John Eugene Fletcher '73 were married in June and are making their home in Sopht, N.C. He is employed by the High Point Chamber of Commerce and the bride intends to teach junior high school students this fall.

Cynthia Leemann '72 of Gaffney, S.C., was married in July to Marina Virgil Cantrell Jr. They are making their home in Greenville, S.C., where the bride is teaching elementary school students.

Alan H. Mayhew '72 has been promoted to assistant cashier of the First-Citizens Bank & Trust Company. He will continue his duties as branch manager of the Coliseum Branch of First-Citizens on Independence Boulevard in Charlotte.

William M. Hamrick '72 has been graduated from the U.S. Air Force air traffic controller course and has been assigned to Seymour Johnson Air Force Base for duty.

Barbara Gale Wallwork '72 and Richard Conrad Dwyer, both of Charlotte, were married in August. She is a teacher at Indian Trail Elementary School.

Phil Hopkins '72 is head varsity basketball coach, junior varsity football coach and physical education teacher at Wren High School in Piedmont, S.C.

Eddie Middleton '72 was ordained June 77 at Allens Creek Baptist Church. The ordination was requested by North Henderson Baptist Church, where he has been serving as minister of youth.

Donald Monroe Harbree '73 and Donna Leigh Ellington '73, recently married, live in Reidsville. Don is employed in a production management program with Burlington House at its Reidsville drapery plant, and Donna is teaching first grade at Douglas Elementary School in Eden.

Glenn Dawn Holt '73 and Roger Dale Herman '73, wed in July, are living in Lenoir, S.C. She is teaching a Model Cities kindergarten in Spartanburg, S.C., and he is safety and education coordinator at Spartanburg General Hospital.

Martha Jane Harrington '73 and Lindsey Franklin Bresser, a GW senior, were married in August and are living at Rt. 3, Shelby.

Susan Rabe '73 is teaching music in junior and senior high schools in the Madison-Mayodon City School System.

The Rev. Michael Shank '72 recently accepted a pastorate at Evergreen Baptist Church in Deberry, N.C. His wife is the former Barbara Rayner '72.

Fred Slack '73 was married to Rebecca Faye Ingle in June. He is with the industrial engineering department of Kappa Alpha, a division of Burlington Industries, at Forest City.

Frank Lee Young '73 has joined the Regeneration singing group, composed of college students who tour the country presenting religious and patriotic songs.

Debbie Lynn Walker '73 and Loretta Raymond Nelson, who'll be graduated from GWC in August, were married in May and are making their home in Bolling Springs.

Rebecca Healey '73 and Marc Nauman, Jr., a rising GWC senior, were wed in May rites in Maiden, N.C. They're living now in Bolling Springs.

In Memoriam

Adelaide P. Baskin, dean of women at Gardner Webb College from 1956 to 1973 and a former English and psychology teacher, died March 19.

Joe T. Moore Sr., 66, of Belmont died Aug. 5. A member of the college's board of trustees, he played a key role in the life of his church, Belmont's First Baptist, and the denomination.

MR. DAVO S. SNIPES
 MR. CHARLES V. EAKER
 BOX 184
 PENDLETON, S.C. 29670
 29630

Fall Football's In Spotlight

Football is in the air on the campus of Gardner-Webb and Coach George Litton's Bulldoggers have their work cut out for them as they play a tough 11 game schedule.

There is an air of cautious optimism this year following a "rough" season last year, when the Bulldogs were plagued with injuries and lost nine of 11 games. Eight Bulldogs had major surgery following the 1975 season.

This year Coach Litton has for the first time lettermen returning at every position even though there are only five seniors on the squad. But the loss of five outstanding players has taken the toll.

The Bulldogs opened with Elon, a team loaded with veterans, who captured the Carolinas Conference title last season. The home opener brought Newberry College to the campus Sept. 15. Last season the Bulldogs fell to the Indians 14-8 in November.

Sanford University will come to Boiling Springs Sept. 22 for a night game at 7:00. Sanford is a powerhouse and it will take a super Bulldog effort to win.

Three road trips will take the Bulldogs to Greensboro to meet Guilford on Sept. 29 and then to Georgetown, Ky., to meet the Tigers. On Oct. 13 Coach Litton's men will journey to Salisbury to meet Catawba in an afternoon game at 2 o'clock.

The Bulldogs will come home Oct. 20 to meet Carson-Newman, last year's NAIA runner-up, at Homecoming. Gametime is 2:30 o'clock. Mars Hill will be the next road trip on Oct. 27.

Two home games will open November with Presbyterian visiting the Bulldog home on Nov. 3 and Wakeford coming to town on Nov. 17. The Presbyterian game is a night battle and Wakeford is an afternoon contest. The final game is a Thanksgiving afternoon game with Lenoir Rhyne in Hickory.

Two Stations To Air Games

Two radio stations, WADA of Shelby, and WAGI of Guilford, will broadcast Gardner-Webb College football games this season.

WADA Sports Director Glenn Wall will handle the play-by-play as he has for the past several years. Wall is a veteran sportscaster who has earned the title "Voice of the Bulldogs" for his work especially with football and basketball at Gardner-Webb. He has accompanied Bulldog sports teams all over the southeast, southwest, and to the Virgin Islands, Mexico City and Hawaii in the past.

WADA, 1390 on the AM dial, will broadcast all of the football games as well as all basketball games this season. WAGI-FM will broadcast six of the 11 football games including five of the six games on the road, plus the Homecoming game against Carson-Newman. Wall will do the play-by-play for both stations. WAGI is 106.3 on the FM dial.

WAGI was scheduled to carry the Elon game on Sept. 8th, the Sanford game at home Sept. 22, the Guilford game in Greensboro on Sept. 29, the Catawba game in Salisbury Oct. 13, the Carson-Newman game at Boiling Springs Oct. 20, the Mars Hill game in Mars Hill on Oct. 27, and the Lenoir Rhyne game in Hickory, Nov. 22.

G-W Foundation Is Unique

A non profit organization, the Christian Service Foundation of Gardner Webb College, has the distinction of being the only college program of its type.

Its purpose is to provide scholarship aid for capable and deserving students preparing for full-time Christian vocational service.

The program was created out of a desire to set up scholarships for students preparing for Christian vocational service. Very few scholarships were available for church-related vocations when the organization was set up, but the program is now providing additional scholarships annually.

The foundation is unique in that the grants offered to qualifying students are not paid back.

Membership consists of persons, organizations or churches interested in helping financially needy students who have felt the call to full-time Christian vocational work.

The organization is in its two years of existence has aided 15 students and has awarded 30 scholarships totaling $6,410.00. Eight of the 30 scholarships were awarded recently bringing the total amount of scholarships to its present figure of $6,410.00. Fifty percent of the money the foundation takes in goes into an endowment fund with the remainder going into a current fund.

The foundation was generously aided recently by a gift of $750 from the Pleasant Grove Baptist Church of Route 5, Shelby.

"It is through the generous giving of churches like the Pleasant Grove church that we are able to help more deserving students," remarked the Rev. Charles Freeman, senior minister at Gardner Webb. "The foundation is made up of dedicated Christian people and churches like Pleasant Grove."